

GERMANS TAKE POSSESSION OF OSTEND

AMSTERDAM HAS NOT SERIOUSLY DAMAGED BY GERMAN GARRISON

Only Suburb of Berchem and Southeast Quarter of Town Suffered Badly, Says Amsterdam Writer

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Antwerp was not seriously damaged by the German bombardment, says the Chronicle's Amsterdam correspondent. "Only the suburb of Berchem and the southeast quarter of the town suffered badly."

After the Germans evacuated the town, the Germans continued firing on the suburbs. The Germans feared mines and hoped this would destroy them. Near the southern suburb of Berchem, the Germans were surprised by traitors from within the city.

Thursday morning the retreating troops from Antwerp passed through the city. They were followed by the Germans. The intention was to reach Ostend by force and then to move on to the coast. The Germans were carrying food and supplies. The Germans were carrying food and supplies. The Germans were carrying food and supplies.

Western Battle Line Now Within Eight Bombs Hurlled Down on Twenty Miles of Straits of Dover

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Except for a flood of vivid details regarding the fall of Antwerp the British public virtually has been cut off from the news of the past twelve hours. It is felt, however, that events of tremendous magnitude have occurred or are occurring in the area about Lille, where the cavalry of the continental forces has been in violent contact for the past week.

Military critics for the London morning papers devote their space to speculation regarding the utterance of Antwerp for German offense or defense. Most of them agree that unless Dutch neutrality is violated Antwerp will be of no more use in forwarding the German purpose of making Zeppelin and naval raids than other places in Belgium. They agree, however, that for military purposes in the western theater the war of the occupation of Antwerp is of supreme importance to Germany, which now will be able to release several divisions to aid its own proposed right wing. Furthermore, the capture of the city will insure the lines of communication about Antwerp, and will result in the capture of the city.

Additional details of the shelling of Antwerp indicate that the damage was not as great as at first estimated. The damage inflicted on the city by the German artillery may be set off in large measure by the great destruction wrought by the Belgians. The official communication from Berlin states that the German army has taken the town of Antwerp, which the court archives indicate that the extreme limit of the western battle is within twenty miles of the Straits of Dover.

It is officially announced in Berlin that prevent the bringing of Italian newspapers. Hungarian officials who returned to Budapest after the Russian battle were taken possession of. "One hundred and fifty houses have been destroyed in Antwerp by the bombardment. Telegraph service from here is suspended."

FIGHTING AROUND ROYE.

Late reports indicate that terrific fighting, partaking of the nature of a siege operation, has taken place during the last fortnight around Roze, Leasney and Albert, the last named place having been completely destroyed. Inspection of works from which the Germans were driven show they took the fullest possible advantage of the existing rock quarries. One bomb, thrown near Notre Dame, fell in the garden where some men and children had been playing until they became frightened at seeing the explosion and fled.

Belgian Mines Cost German Army Heavily

(By Associated Press.)

ROTTERDAM, via London, Oct. 12.—A correspondent of the Tidd, describing the scenes at Antwerp, says: "When the outer forts were taken, the Belgians, exhausted and shamed, their heads swathed in bandages and their clothes smeared with mud, withered, were driven to the inner line. Two commandants blew up their forts and spiked their guns. The Germans fired a breach in the inner circle of forts some 200 yards apart. Belgian mines of the inner and outer forts cost the Germans thousands of men. It was a German commander who apparently had been ordered to take the city at all costs."

The siege of Liege was as nothing compared with the last two nights of the bombardment, which was the most terrible of the war. While the bombardment was at its height prisoners began to be taken at the doors of their cells because bombs had pierced the roofs of the prison. They huddled like madmen under the cover of the German machine guns. This continued until suppressed by the Germans.

GENERAL IN BOER WAR RELEASED BY GERMANS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Rev. Epiphanius, a nephew of Paul Kruger, and at one time secretary of state for Transvaal and a general in the Boer war, arrived in London today after two months' detention in Westphalia. Mr. DeWarr is a resident of the Boer colony at Hohenhausen, Tann, and is an American citizen, but he was held by the Germans as a British subject. He appealed to the American embassy in Berlin and was released.

One of the most delicious of the European cheeses is a simple article, consisting of cottage cheese ripened in close-pressed form. When up to the eating age, this cheese has a slight; uncalled-for appearance and is big in the way of fragrance, but there can be no more delightful flavor in the world than that of this cheese upon nearly black bread, when one is seated under the vines at a country inn at the foot of a long walk. The strange feature about this food is that the German cottage cheese from which this country cheese is prepared is called quark.
